WHAT IS THE NAVY DOING ?

WHO asks what the Navy is doing ?
Who grasps what the Navy has done ?—

It has saved your Land from invasion,
At the hand of the merciless Hun ;
It has guarded your shores ( O ye faithless ! )
From the tramp of a murderous horde ;
It has shielded your homes from destruction,
By fire and by shell and the sword !

Your cruisers have swept the vast oceans,
That your bread-stuffs, your food, and your stores,
May be brought by your traders securely,
And landed in peace on your shores.
They have convoyed your armies in safety,
To fields of incomparable fame—
They have brought them from Eastward and Westward,
To battle in England's name !

What, because the great ships of your Navy
Are silent, unseen in their might,
Do you think of them idling in day-time ?
Do you picture them anchored at night ?
Why there's never an hour, not a minute,
When their grip is relaxed of the foe—
Though threatened with dangers all round them,
With the treachery of mines from below.

This your Navy has done and is doing,
All this it will do to the end,
Till the might of the enemy's broken,
And his arrogance made to unbend ;
Till the wrongs of the weak whom he trampled,
Whose cities he gave to the sword,
Are recompensed fully and justly,
And Freedom and Peace are restored !

DECEMBER, 1914.

J.E.H.
